COVID-19

HVAC Cleaning Solutions

Reduce the Spread of COVID-19

Further investigations into COVID-19 indicate the virus spreads through aerosolisation as a secondary transmission method. This is especially prominent within a built environment containing heating, ventilation and air conditioning (HVAC) systems.

With an announcement from the American Society of Heating, Refrigeration and Air Conditioning Engineers (ASHRAE) indicating small particles or the virus remain airborne for some period of time, it is important to ensure proper hygiene is maintained with all HVAC systems.
